International Marketing and Sales
Master of Arts (M.A.)

Master of Arts International Marketing and Sales

Our postgraduate degree in Marketing and Sales (MIM) addresses the ongoing changes, heightened complexity, and transformation processes accelerated by Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI). The MIM program builds upon the traditional foundations of marketing and sales, such as strategic marketing, brand management or persuasion and negotiation. These aspects aim to achieve and maintain a competitive advantage for companies. The program seamlessly integrates digital marketing and generative AI-based content, equipping students with the skills to devise and implement practical yet innovative marketing and sales strategies. Dedicated to future-oriented topics, the program ensures that students acquire practical skills to navigate the constant changes in the dynamic field of marketing and sales.

Course of Study

Designed to be completed within three semesters. The first two semesters consist of two types of courses: first, required fundamental courses; second, elective courses to reflect specialization, some of which can be selected from other business master's programs. In the third semester, the thesis is completed under supervision.

Program Plan

Competencies

The MIM master program raises the standard of marketing and sales, especially in the service markets.

- It incorporates market demand, expands teaching into managing impression, analyze the current training trends and research on marketing and sales development.
- Our global network is a platform to connect students, corporate executives and faculty members. Our strong community leads to a strong community network. Students get prepared and connected for a successful career path.

Teaching Philosophy

Our objective is to develop students' skill to understand the latest research and insights and to use those tools by applying them to real business problems. To achieve that goal of active learning, we offer our students a small, interactive classroom experience, coupled with a variety of teaching formats, like lectures, group and individual projects, and research opportunities.

Career Opportunities

After the program, MIM students will be prepared for diverse career paths, including product management, sales and account management, and strategic market planning.

During your program, you will have acquired practical knowhow, analytical skills, and a deepened knowledge-set of a specialist and therefore you can join either an operational department in a firm or a strategic one:

- Sales
- Marketing
- Business strategy
- Product management
- Consulting
